New England Cancer Specialists Welcomes New CEO

Edwin Graham brings extensive background in oncology practice management to role

Scarborough, ME – New England Cancer Specialists (NECS), the region’s largest community oncology practice, is pleased to announce Edwin T. Graham, MHCDS as its new Chief Executive Officer.

He joined the practice on July 18.

Graham has worked as a healthcare executive for over three decades, most recently serving as the Regional Vice President of OneOncology in Nashville, TN. Prior to that, he was the Executive Director of New York Oncology Hematology and the US Oncology Network in Albany, NY, as well as prior executive roles in multiple provider settings, in health insurance with Kaiser Permanente and healthcare advocacy and government relations.

Graham has a Masters of Health Care Delivery Science from Dartmouth College.

He has served as a board member of the Community Oncology Alliance (COA), a national non-profit that advocates for oncology practices and their patients through public policy and expanded access to resources. Additionally, he was previously appointed by the Governor of New York to serve on the State Hospital Review and Planning Council.

Graham says he is honored and humbled to join the practice. “Cancer touches us all and requires a highly organized team of dedicated physicians, medical professionals and staff to respond to and treat each patient with individual care,” he said. “The team at New England Cancer Specialists is nationally recognized as innovating at the leading-edge of patient-centered cancer care. I am excited to join and work with this talented and compassionate team to continue their proud tradition of offering the highest quality care and clinical research to Maine & New Hampshire patients.”
