

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING

Gibson Park Resiliency & Recreation Project

The City of Revere has undertaken a significant redevelopment project to protect its Riverside Neighborhood from current and future threats from flooding and sea level rise. The Gibson Park Resiliency and Recreation Project will provide nature-based resiliency measures to the RiverFront area that has historically faced tidal and storm flooding events. It is predicted that flooding will occur more frequently due to global climate change. This project will implement multiple nature-based interventions to reduce flood risk and provide the community with a re-envisioned multi-purpose recreational facility as approved in the RiverFront Master Plan.

Join the Department of Planning and Community Development for this public informational meeting to provide residents with a project update, overview of the next steps, and an opportunity for open discussion.
