

A MESSAGE FROM THE SUPERINTENDENT

Christian M. Elkington

Unfortunately, we live in a time when there is a high level of negative messaging being delivered about life in general, and at times specifically directed toward Public Education. This may be expected given the difficult times we are going through in our country and across the globe. I find myself wondering if today's difficulties are worse than when I was younger or do they just seem so because they get amplified by the media and technology of today? It can be hard to believe that there is anything good happening in our world, country, or district.

I am happy to say that in my visits to schools and connections with students, staff, parents, and community members within our differing communities that there is a strong level of respect and trust for the efforts being made in RSU 9. That there is an appreciation for the positive efforts being made by many within our district. Sure, there is disagreement from time-to-time but that does not mean disrespect. I appreciate that many of the people within RSU 9 can see that not agreeing with someone does not mean the other person is the enemy or does not care. That we are all making efforts to best support RSU 9 student needs.

One of the best examples of many, is the year-long cooperation being demonstrated and being made with our work on improved student attendance. Our students can't take advantage of the instruction and learning taking place in our schools and classrooms if they are not present. Thanks go to everyone for your focus on helping our students be present to take advantage of what RSU 9 has to offer!

Here's hoping that our students, families, and staff have an enjoyable February Break!

COLIN WOHRLE-LOGAN QUALIFIES TO COMPETE IN TWO NATIONAL DEBATE TOURNAMENTS

The National Catholic Forensic League's Grand National Tournament is held annually on Memorial Day Weekend. Colin is one of four Maine high school students who qualified for NCFL's tournament at Bangor High School this year. (The NCFL is non-denominational, and Maine public high schools have sent debaters to compete at the League's tournaments for many years.). The National Speech and Debate Tournament is hosted by the National Speech and Debate Association. This year, the tournament takes place in Des Moines, Iowa, from June 16 to June 21. Colin is one of two Maine high school students who qualified for this competition.
