Sandy River Nursing Home CNA Graduates

Workforce Classes:

Our in-house CNA class has started, and we have 4 students. Lorna Collins, RN is teaching the lab and lecture portion. At the end of February students will do their clinical time at Franklin Memorial, Orchard Park and Harris House under the guidance of Erika Webster, RN. The state has reduced the required hours for this license from 180 hours to 130 hours, enabling us to get students out into the field and into jobs more quickly.

Our CNA course collaboration with Sandy River Nursing Home has seen its second group of CNAs start this school year. The students are Sandy River employees who are paid to attend class and give a commitment to the company to remain employees after their training is complete. Three graduated this fall and the new class will have at least four students.

We are also looking at running a CNA-MED class this spring. CNA's who have worked at least a year full-time in the profession can take the 120-hour course to increase their skill level and pay.

Enrichment:

This is the “fun” side of adult education, but it takes a lot of work to get these classes designed and ready for the public. Jan Dodge coordinates all the classes with the help of Stephanie Chu-O’Neil and Greta Espeaignnette who handle their respective school districts. All this information then gets compiled into our brochure and website by Liza Donald. The completed document needs to get to the printers almost 6 weeks ahead of landing in our neighbor's mailboxes.

We are excited that several fall classes were so popular that we have been able to fill January classes with their waiting lists. One of our participants wrote, “What a nice diversion from the pandemic-small numbers, everyone ‘masked up’ with a mission. Having something tangible in life to show for our efforts is rewarding!”

Staff Changes:

Susan Knight has resigned as our detention center instructor. Thank you to Sue for all her years of dedication to our incarcerated population.

We are continuing to look for someone to fill this 14-hour week position.

Working diligently on her academics.
